After a lengthy discussion, the matter of suggesting a suitable location of the City Offices in the event of the present building being vacated, was referred to the Finance Committee, to report at next meeting.

Meeting adjourned.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM HORRIBLE DEATH

A miraculous escape from a horrible death took place at Battle Lake on Saturday, when Peter Kortzman went to a well on his farm for the purpose of turning a valve to prevent the water from freezing. He slipped on a rung of the ladder as he was descending the ladder into the well, and fell about forty feet, breaking a leg and hand. The accident took place at about 4 p.m. and it was not until twenty-four hours later that the accident was reported to Constable Crounch, R.C.M.P., who investigated, and found the unfortunate man was still alive, and he is now recovering from the accident. Kortzman is about eighty years of age, he is blind in one eye, and his wife who resides with him, is totally blind. Mr. Kortzman knew something had happened, but owing to her affliction, nothing could be done, and it was not until her daughter visited the home Sunday morning that a search was commenced and it was some hours later that Mr. Kortzman was found at the bottom of the well.

A map of enlarged municipal districts under the government's proposed re-organization scheme is now being printed for distribution and will be considered by the municipal districts association at its convention in November.

JOINT RECOGNITION FOR MISSIONARIES

Direction of a joint memorial to two famous pioneers, Rev. Father Lacombe and Rev. John McDougall, to commemorate their work in maintaining peace and order in this country in the early days, is proposed by the historic sites and monuments board of Canada.

Judge F. W. Howay of New Westminster, western representative for the board, said in an interview here Saturday that the site may be near Wetaskiwin, which name signifies "the hills of peace."

It was recalled by Judge Howay that both Father Lacombe and Rev. McDougall did noble work as pacifists, particularly in the rebellion of 1885.

It is proposed to erect the memorial in the near future, after a site has been definitely decided upon.

Judge Howay arrived here to take part in the unveiling on Saturday afternoon of the memorial to members of the Alberta Field Force of 1885. He is to deliver an address on this occasion, when he will deal with work of the national monuments board, particularly in relation to Alberta.

In keeping fresh the story of Alberta, 12 memorials have been erected in this province by the monuments board. Six of these are connected with discovery and settlement, two with Indian relics, two for the Royal Northwest Mounted Police and two in connection with the rebellion of 1885.

One of the most important memorials in connection with explorers is that erected near Peace River crossing to mark the site where Alexander Mackenzie wintered in 1792-93, in making his second attempt to find an outlet to the Pacific.

This site was located by Judge Howay when on a visit to the north country and is looked upon as being of great historical interest as this trip of the explorer's was the first crossing of the continent by the North American.

Another monument is in memory of David Thompson who for some 25 years, from 1787 to 1812, did valuable mapping of a scientific nature in this part of the country.

A monument has been erected near Port Saskatchewan to mark the sites of Fort Augustus and Fort Edmonton, operated by the Northwest company and the Hudson's Bay company in 1794. A memorial at Rocky Mountain House is a tribute to the success in trading with the Blackfoot Indians from 1799 to 1860.

Other sites marked are Jasper and Henry House, the place where treaty No. 7 was made with the Blackfoot Indians, Mounted Police posts at Fort Macleod and Calgary and the scene of the Frog Lake massacre in 1885.—Journal.

(At the meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening, the Secretary, treasurer was instructed to write Judge Howay asking him to look over suitable locations in this community.)

MAN WITH BROKEN NECK IS NEAR RECOVERY NOW

Making a slow, uphill battle toward complete recovery, Arnie Dickson, 24, of Calmar, Alta., who fractured two vertebrae in his neck in a high dive into shallow water at Pigeon Lake on August 6 last, has recovered to some extent the use of his arms and legs.

Following the accident Dickson suffered complete paralysis, and since that time orthopedic physicians have been busy relieving it. His neck is in a heavy plaster cast still. Dickson is in the University hospital. Control is gradually coming to him as he attempts to move his arms and legs, and it is expected that in time he will fully recover.—Journal.

When asked why she was forever going to the doctor, a local lady confessed that she was reading a continued story in a magazine in his office and had to keep going till it was finished.

HON. R. B. BENNETT

Who declared in the House of Commons Wednesday, that great benefit would accrue to Canada as a result of the tariff concessions granted at the Imperial Economic Conference.

PORT VERMILION HOSPITAL AND CONVENT FALL PREY TO FLAMES EARLY FRIDAY

Port Vermilion, Alta., Oct. 7.—Only valiant efforts on the part of scores of rescue workers, directed by hospital sisters, averted a tragedy here Friday morning when flames of unknown origin swept through St. Henry's convent and the St. Therese hospital. Bedridden patients were carried to safety by the workers and although there were countless narrow escapes in the blazing institutions, not a single life was lost, nor did any suffer serious injury.

The fire broke out at 6:00 a.m., rapidly spreading through the convent at the hospital. By 9:00 a.m. the convent was razed and the hospital was in ruins. At that time the volunteer workers, including all available able-bodied persons in the settlement, were engaged in a frenzied battle to keep the flames from spreading from blazing woodsheds to the boys' dormitory and school. It appeared that their efforts would be successful. Warehouses and stables were still in danger.

Children of the school marched to safety as soon as the alarm was given, worked like Trojans, the older ones carrying books and property from the school rooms while adults were engaged in clearing the hospital of patients.

WM. IRVINE, M.P. SCORES PRIME MINISTER

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—Premier Bennett's declaration in favor of "sound money" was ridiculed by William Irvine, U.F.A., Wetaskiwin, in the House of Commons Tuesday afternoon during the debate on the amendment to the speech from the throne.

The capitalistic system was on its last legs. Successive governments had made so many attempts to patch it up there were no more patches left. "Sound money is something Canada never had," declared Mr. Irvine. "It is something no nation ever had while on the gold basis. It is to get sound money we are conducting this agitation."

Mr. Bennett, himself, had admitted the money system of the world had collapsed. This implied it was no longer sound. The reason it had collapsed, the Alberta farmer claimed, was because its basis was unstable and its basis was gold.

"We stand for a money system based on the character of the Canadian people plus all the wealth of the Canadian people," he asserted.

Great Britain had been forced to abandon the gold standard, Mr. Irvine continued, and 17 countries were now off the gold standard and carrying on successfully. Mr. Bennett had said Britain's abandonment of the gold standard had struck a blow at Canada. Canada could have "ducked the blow" by following Britain's example.

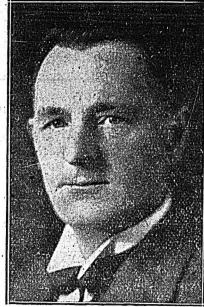

In an attempt to remain on the gold standard Great Britain had borrowed heavily from France and the United States. Since going off it she had been able to repay this indebtedness. This showed the best way to get gold was to go off the gold standard.

At the end of Mr. Irvine's speech the House rose for dinner.

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—The House of Commons sat for 40 minutes today, ironing out methods of procedure for the session. Adjournment was made until Monday.

William Irvine, United Farmer member for Wetaskiwin, advocated the depreciation of the Canadian dollar to the level of the pound sterling and the departure of Canada from the gold standard. He gave notice of a resolution he will sponsor later in the session.

Robinson, for several years their highly esteemed Scoutmaster, with an address of grateful esteem and appreciation of his devotion and leadership and expressions of regret at his departure from their midst, also expressing their best wishes for his success in his new enterprise and place of residence and fitting their action to their faith in the fulfillment of their wishes and the capabilities of their retiring Scoutmaster, presented him with a handsome bill-fold. Troop leader Cecil Walkley, on behalf of the troops, making the presentation.

On Friday evening, September 23, members of St. John's Vestry, with the Warden were entertained to dinner as guests of the Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Jeffcott.

The occasion was to bid Mr. E. C. Robinson Godspeed and to wish him every success in his new undertaking in Wetaskiwin. Mr. Robinson has for many years undertaken the duties of People's Warden of St. John's Church and will be much missed by his colleagues and friends of the Parish. After dinner Mr. Robinson was presented with a pen and pencil set as a token of appreciation of his long and faithful service. Mrs. A. M. Blackburn and Miss Helen Bishop assisted Mrs. Jeffcott at dinner.

On Thursday evening members of Spitzke Lodge No. 6, A.F. & A.M., entertained complimentary to Mr. E. C. Robinson, who was leaving in a few days to make his home in Wetaskiwin, where he recently purchased a harness and saddlery business. The evening was very enjoyably passed in bridge and whist. Mr. A. M. Blackburn and Mr. R. Y. Laidlaw filling the position of hosts.

The awards were made by the hosts following the partaking of a dainty supper and closely following their presentation Mr. Blackburn on calling upon the honored guest of the evening read to him an address expressing the esteem in which he is held enumerating the various activities in community life in which he had been of valuable assistance and mentioning especially his years of work and devotion to the Boy Scouts as Scoutmaster and his untiring work in St. John's Anglican Church. Referring to Mr. Robinson's faithful membership in the Masonic Order, Mr. Blackburn on behalf of Spitzke Lodge presented Mr. Robinson with a handsome wrist watch.

Mr. Robinson accepted the gift with marked appreciation and expressed his regret in leaving Pincher Creek and the various activities with which he had become associated, adding that whatever the new environment or future held in store he would always cherish unfading and happy memories of Pincher Creek.

The evening was concluded with a very heartily rendering of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

CINDERELLA CLUB OFFICERS ELECTED

The Cinderella Club was organized for the season a few days ago, and meetings will be held each Monday in the W.I. Club rooms. The following are the officers:

Vice-President—Alma Fiedler.

Grain trade officials in Calgary report that Alberta farmers are showing a distinct tendency to hold as much of the crop back as possible for higher prices. They are offered at present prices an average of only 32 cents per bushel for No. 1 Northern wheat delivered at the elevator.

The regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club was held at the Drift Hotel on Tuesday evening. It was decided to hold a Ladies' Night in the near future. The exact date was left with the Program Committee to arrange.

President French announced that on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week a collection of some thirty pictures dealing with Alberta subjects, will be on exhibition in the Drift hall room. During these three days these pictures may be viewed by the public free of charge. The pictures are being brought to Wetaskiwin from the University of Alberta under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club. Major Norbury will be in charge of the exhibit. On Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, Prof. Adair gave a talk on the pictures in the Drift hall room, open to the public, for which an admission charge of 50c to adults and 10c to students will be made. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. A. M. Trendell and his subject was "Competition vs. Co-operation." The nations of the world have gone too much along the line of competition. We need to be more internationally minded. Science and business have brought nations of our day close together but their moral outlook has not been sufficiently developed. They look at questions from the standpoint of competition rather than from that of co-operation. The idea of the brotherhood of man needs to be developed. Instead of developing this idea, the nations are building high tariff walls against each other and also increasing their armaments. If this condition is not checked another world war is inevitable. Competition is essentially selfish and devilish, and if allowed to continue it may mean the end of civilization.

The speaker was warmly thanked by the President on behalf of the Club for his very earnest and timely address.

GETS TWO YEARS ON ARSON CHARGE

Provost, Oct. 7.—Horace Greely Norman, 72, of Meliskow, was brought up in custody here on a charge of arson, and sent to Edmonton for trial.

The charge, which arose out of a fire July 10th, when Norman's house at Meliskow was destroyed by fire, was laid by W. J. Ward, an inspector from the fire commission's department in Edmonton and claimed that the accused "set fire to a dwelling house with intent to defraud the Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation, of London, Eng."

The investigation that preceded the charge had been under way for about two weeks, and Inspector Ward, in company with W. P. Walker, of the Fire Underwriters' investigation bureau, spent Tuesday probing haystacks and straw stacks in the vicinity of Meliskow. After a long search they discovered hidden in stacks on two farms north of the town, clothing, glassware, pictures and other household effects, and the arrest followed.

He pleaded guilty before Magistrate McLeod and was sentenced to two years in jail, the magistrate describing him as "a menace to the district" on his previous police court record.

FIFTEEN TRANSIENTS GO TO FORT SASKATCHEWAN

The Edmonton patrol wagon was required on Sunday morning to convey fifteen transients who had been arrested by E. W. Florentine, C.P.R. police, assisted by Chief of Police McIlhargy and Constable Crounch, R.C.M.P., on Saturday. The total number arrested was twenty-seven, and when they appeared before R. M. Angus, Police Magistrate, twelve pleaded guilty and paid their fines of $2 each and costs, while the remainder were sentenced to twenty days confinement at Fort Saskatchewan. Instructions were issued from Ottawa to make the arrests.

A teachers' convention of the Wetaskiwin Inspectorate will be held on November 9th and 10th.

CANADA TRADE PACT

DETAILS DUE THURSDAY

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—The British Empire's new fiscal system, established at the Imperial Conference, will go into operation next week. Simultaneous announcements will be made next Wednesday in Ottawa, London, Canberra, Dublin, in all the capitals of the Empire of the tariff schedules negotiated at the conference.

Terms of Canada's treaties with Great Britain, the Irish Free State, South Africa and Southern Rhodesia, will be announced in the House of Commons by Premier R. B. Bennett at 4 o'clock E.S.T. This will be zero hour throughout the Empire. Because the British House will not meet until the following week, the announcements there will be made in the press.

The Canadian tariffs will go into effect midnight Wednesday in the same manner as a budget, the Prime Minister told the House today in making the announcement.

The House met only 40 minutes today to discuss procedure for the fall session. The government said the Prime Minister, intended devoting the entire session to ratification of the Imperial Conference treaties. The report of the Duff Royal Commission, which investigated railway problems, will be tabled Tuesday. A government bill implementing many of its recommendations will be introduced, but discussion may be delayed until Parliament assembles in January or February. The Redistribution Bill will be introduced Monday and referred to a committee.

The three House leaders, Premier Bennett, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King and Robert Gardiner, paid tribute today to the late Thomas McMillan, whose death made necessary the recent by-election in South Huron.

The address in reply to the speech from the throne will be moved Monday. It was agreed between the two leaders the subsequent debate may be sidetracked while the trade treaties are discussed.

APPEAL AGAINST

BOARD'S RULING

Edmonton, Oct. 7.—W. S. Gray, K. C., of the Attorney-General's department has left for Ottawa to appear before the Supreme Court of Canada, probably next Tuesday, in a reference to the court by the Board of Railway Commissioners on the jurisdiction of the board in ordering from the railway crossing fund, contributions toward the divergence of crossings, to keep pace with contributions from provinces and railway companies.

The board is said to have adopted the stand that it has no jurisdiction in view of a ruling of Hon. Frank Carvell.

This province, now joined in the appeal by Saskatchewan and Manitoba, as all level crossings in the three provinces are affected, contends that Hon. Mr. Carvell's ruling was merely an opinion expressed should such a contingency arise, while there is record an absolute ruling by Mr. Justice H. A. McKeown in his time as chairman.

In support of its contention the province points to no fewer than 1 crossings in this province where such assistance has been given from the fund.

The principle at stake involves all level crossing diversions, although the particular crossing that brought about the reference is that popularly known as "death corner."

RURAL SCHOOLS CLOSED

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 6.—Fourteen thousand children in Cullman county, Ala. are experiencing an unexpected vacation because rural schools have closed for lack of funds. Three hundred teachers were thrown out of work but it did not matter a great deal, for they had worked 11 months without pay already.

You would not be ashamed of your stationery if it had been printed at The Times office.

Kate Smith, Queen of Crooners

The real reason why the whole nation sits up and listens while Kate Smith brings the moon over the mountain, is because modern radio transmission and reception are so good that you receive Kate's friendliness and great good humor right along with her songs. Miss Smith's idea of a good time is to stage a "radio party" in her New York apartment, and give these people of stage, screen and microphone "a chance to hear some good music." Confidentially, she likes to listen to radio better than she likes to sing for it.

ALBERTA TO GAIN

SEAT IN COMMONS

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—Prime Minister Bennett will introduce in the house of commons Monday a bill redistributing representation in the house. He gave notice of this today. It will be the regular decennial redistribution, based on the census of 1931. The province of Quebec, with a set representation of 65, will be the basis, the other provinces having as many members as the ratio between their population and that of Quebec. The bill will not alter the total number of members in the house—this will remain at 245: Nova Scotia will lose two members, and New Brunswick will lose one. British Columbia will gain two members and Alberta one. Representation from the other provinces will remain the same. The bill will change the boundary lines of many ridings, some being made smaller, others larger. In Ontario, for instance, the number of members will remain the same, but urban centres may be given more representation by abolishing some rural ridings.

RULE RAIL COACH

MUST HAVE BELL

Ottawa, Oct. 5.—If it runs on rails it must have a bell and not a horn, according to the supreme court of Canada. In the case of Green and Breckinridge against the Canadian National railways, the court held the sounding of a device like an automobile horn on an electric railway coach was not enough warning to traffic at a level crossing. The crash occurred at Colinton, Alta., on the Athabasca branch line, where the new electric coach crashed into the plaintiff's automobile at a crossing.

Evidence was to the effect they heard the railway car sound its horn but thought it was an automobile behind. They were then hit. They claimed the railway company was negligent in not sounding a bell like ordinary trains do.

At the trial Mr. Justice Ford awarded $3,746 damages. This was set aside by the appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta. Judgment was handed down Tuesday restoring the ruling of the trial judge.

FARM STRIKERS IN U.S. ACTIVE

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 6.—The farm strikers' war has been broken. After resting a while farmers in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota were back on the highways on Thursday attempting to stop farm shipments to improve prices.

Their activities were concentrated in Northwestern Iowa, Southeastern Dakota and Southwestern Nebraska, scenes of the most vigorous disputes during August and September. The traditional weapons of the striking farmers, heavy planks, logs, machine belts studded with spikes and clubs, were their accoutrements as they again swung into action.

A receiving station, operated by the Burlington Co-operative Pure Milk Association, was wrecked at Burlington by an explosion which authorities attributed to an outbreak of a milk war.

Only about fifteen feet of the rear wall of the one-story brick building remained standing. John Eisenhart, 13, night watchman at the station, appeared an hour after the blast, saying he had been kidnapped by five men who set the bombs in the building.

THIS BANK MUST BE BROKE

"I wish our bank could get on its feet enough to stop sending back our cheques marked 'No Funds,'" said the bride to her husband. "A bank that hasn't got enough money on hand to pay a $4.27 cheque ought to be merged and put on a sound basis."

COMMENCE STUDY

STATE MEDICINE

State medicine as a possibility for the future in Alberta is being discussed by the legislative committee recently appointed for the purpose, the first meeting of which was held at the parliament buildings Wednesday morning. Hon. George Housley, minister of health, is chairman of the committee and set the machinery in motion at the opening of its initial meeting. The other members are Dr. W. A. Atkinson, W. G. Farquharson, Chris. Pattinson, Hon. Mrs. Parlyby, A. P. Mitchell, G. E. Cruickshank, and Rudolph Henning, the personnel representing all groups in the legislature.

Information bearing upon the action that has been taken in various other countries toward the nationalization of health services has been gathered and tabulated by the government's health department during the past month or more, and this data will be considered at the present sittings of the committee. The appointment of the committee and the work it is now undertaking to do are the outcome of a resolution presented in the legislature at the last session by Chris. Pattinson, Labor member for Edmonton, and adopted by the house. A thorough inquiry into the feasibility of some plan of state medicine was asked for in Mr. Pattinson's resolution, and a report giving the findings of the committee now at work, in accordance with the decision of the house, will be submitted at the next session.—Journal.

WHEAT PRICES PROBLEM

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 6.—Low prices for wheat constitute one of the major problems for parliament to cope with at the coming session, in the opinion of Robert Gardiner, U. F. A. leader and member for Acadia, Alberta, who is now in Ottawa. The main task was to find a level on which a fair return would be given to the wheat farmer, Mr. Gardiner said.

HE WON'T STAY DOWN

This old world is sometimes jealous of the chap who means to rise: It sneers at what he's doing or it bats him 'twixt the eyes; It trips him when he's careless and it makes his way so hard, What's left of him is sinew, not a walking tub of lard. But it's only 'wasting effort' for 'by George, the guy keeps on. When his hopes have crumbled round him and you'd think his faith had gone, Till the world at last knocks under and it passes him a crown; Once, twice, thrice, it has upset him, but he won't stay down! What cares he when he's flattened by the cruel blow it deals? He has rubber in his shoulders and a mauling in his heels. Let the world uncoil its buffets till he's bruised from toe to crown, Let it thump him, bump him, damp him, BUT HE WON'T STAY DOWN!

Eczema or Salt Rheum

A Troublesome Skin Disease

Eczema manifests itself in little round blisters which contain an extremely irritating fluid. They break, and subsequently a crust is formed, and the intense burning, itching and smarting is almost unbearable.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the remedy for giving relief to all such sufferers.

Mrs. H. J. Frost, R.R. 2, Belleville, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with eczema on my face, in fact all over my body. It would raise up in water blisters, break and scab over which was very irritating.

A friend told me about Burdock Blood Bitters, and it proved of wonderful help to me."

HOBBIES AND INNER SELVES

The name of Rothschild is one of those names that mean important money. Like Rockefeller and Morgan, it stands for finance and the power of finance. So when Lord Rothschild was listed as a speaker at a recent meeting of a British scientific association, everybody stood by for a heavy speech about the world depression and what not.

But Lord Rothschild, without cracking a smile, got up and made a speech which began as follows:

"The queerest looking fleas yet discovered originated in South America. They are found only there and in only explanation that is at all satisfactory is that they are a modified form in Australia. The fleas are the assumption that at one time there was a bridge between South America and Australia."

And he went on to deliver a scholarly scientific speech that did not have the faintest relation to finance, trade or industry.

As a revelation that a king of finance can have an interest aside from money bags, this little story is rather illuminating. We ordinarily assume that a man like Rothschild must be a monkish gentleman whose veins run ice water and who can interest himself in nothing that does not bear the sign of the dollar or the pound sterling.

This scientific study of South American fleas, then, comes as a shock. An odd hobby for a rich man to have? Perhaps, but a useful one just the same, and one that betokens an active, cultured mind.

It sometimes seems as if you can tell more about a man by his hobby than by his profession. A man can slip into a job more or less by accident, and through force of circumstance can stay in it all his life when there are other things he would rather do. But his hobby—that is his own choice, and he can change it any time he pleases.

And this story about one of the world's richest men makes one wonder; if things had happened just a little differently, might England not have one less financier and one more scientist.—Bruce Catton.

Having a place in the world is one thing, but being in one's place in the world is quite another thing. There is a place for every man, but not every man in his place. And the man who is out of his place in the world is out of place in his world. If a man would prove his right to be in the world, he must show that he is in his place as well as in the world.

MELANCHOLY DAYS

These are the days when we wake up at five in the morning with our backs cold and reach for the blanket at the bottom of the bed. They are the days when we notice the floor is cold when we put our feet on it at six or seven or eight o'clock, and the mornings when we can't decide whether to go without an overcoat or not.

Another thing we notice these days is that the coffee tastes better. There's something about that warm glow inside that we find attractive in autumn and never appreciate in July. Then when we hustle out in the open air we notice that there appears to be slight haze at the horizon and those of us from the far east and the far west, take a moment off to remember that if we were in Vancouver or Nova Scotia there would be a heavy mist hanging over the city and the marrows would be struggling.

We notice, too, that these are the mornings when the children are skipping along briskly to school and spending their time in active games in order to warm up before the bell rings.

These are the days that we go at our work with relish, and zest; the days when we forget to send up the jars for the preserves the wife is making; and when we reach for the telephone book to look up a coal dealer. At noon, we find out that we shouldn't have worn our overcoat at all.

But at 6:00 o'clock we are glad again, and buttoning it up, we hurry along home hoping there will be beefsteak and onions for dinner.

These are the days we trip over schoolbooks in the hall, clean our guns in the basement and look the furnace over again. Then we take a last look at the garden. Last week it was blooming and summer was among the flowers—tonight it has faded, for Jack Frost has been there, but the cellar is full of carrots and beets and snowy potatoes, and while he blackened the flowers, the frost added just the right flavor to the turnips.

We shiver as the garden fades into darkness and a sharp gust of wind comes around the corner. So we go in to a dish of harvest apples, a book and a bright fire in the fireplace.

Once someone called these the "Melancholy Days."—Regina Leader-Post.

YOUNG WOMAN FINISHES HIKE FROM CALIFORNIA TO ALASKA

Juneau, Alaska, Oct. 7.—Although lost for five days in the wilderness south of Telegraph Creek, B.C., Miss Thea Francis today completed a hike from San Francisco to Juneau started last March 19, and delivered a letter from Governor James Rolph, Jr., of California, to Governor George A. Parks of Alaska.

After leaving Vancouver, B.C., early in the summer, the girl said she hiked to Hazelton, and then plunging into the wilderness she followed the Dominion Government telegraph line, becoming lost and remaining on a bar at the head waters of the Bell Irving River before being found by telegraph linemen sent to search for her.

After being placed on the trail she hiked to Telegraph Creek and Atlin, thence to Skagway, where she obtained a small boat and paddled down the Lynn Canal to Alaska's capital. That was the only transportation, other than walking, that Miss Francis had on the entire trip, she said.

Although she saw many bears and moose, she said she was not molested. From California she carried raisins and dates as her chief diet, and rationed herself to be sure of food between her various stops. Miss Francis said she originally left New York City in April, 1930, on a hike to California.

FEAR AN OBSTACLE TO PROGRESS

Fear is an obstacle to progress. The great balancing influence is faith. Men cannot destroy the desire to possess, the willingness to work to possess, inventive genius, faith, hope and courage. With these motivating influences a depression is only a temporary period to check up on the past, to prepare for higher standards of living and for greater spiritual and material prosperity than ever before.

Miss Gladys Kerr was home over the week-end to spend the Thanksgiving holiday with her parents.

Don't forget the U.F.W.A. meeting at Mrs. R. Wagner's on Thursday, the 20th. All grandmothers welcome.

Quite a crowd of Millettites, among them some of the most prominent citizens, spent the holiday duck hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson and son Ronald of Fort Saskatchewan, spent the Thanksgiving holiday at the home of Mrs. Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Goin.

Miss Lola Pendleton spent the holiday under the parental roof at Lougheed. Miss Kathleen Graham left for Lougheed on Saturday to take up residence at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Pendleton, and continue her studies at the High School there.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vanaalstine of Wetaskiwin, were Millet visitors over the holiday. Messrs. G. Wolf, Lloyd Wolf and Wm. Vanaalstine, were out hiking the other members of their families spending the day and having Thanksgiving dinner with Mrs. G. Wolf.

It is hoped that all members of the congregation will be present at the welcome social to be held in the Community hall on Friday next, when the Rev. G. A. and Mrs. Elliott will be pleased to meet all their new parishioners. Please bring refreshments.

Runaways of one form or other seemed to be the order of the day last week. One team of horses belonging to James, and in use on a thrashing outfit at the R. Filan farm, ran away, one horse becoming entangled in barbed wire and so badly cut that it was necessary to destroy it.

The other horse was caught unharmed about a mile away. One of Mr. Grapentine's horses took a notion to run while Stanley Grapentine was on its back, and in jumping a fence suffered a broken leg and had to be killed. Another rather amusing incident, though it could easily have been otherwise, took place on Jim Sharf's farm, when during threshing operations the tractor in use took A. W. O. L. (absent without leave) came rushing up to the separator, tree up the feeder, and caused considerable excitement for a while. No one was near the tractor at the time. The tractor and separator belong to John Zelmer.

A friend noticed Dugald riding along the street on a woman's bicycle. "How came ye to buy that?" the friend asked. "Well, it was like this," said Dugald: "I was walking out with Janet the other evening, and when we came to a darkish part of the moor, she said, 'I love ye Dugald; I love ye so much I'll give ye anything ye like.' So when I thought it over a bit I took her bicycle."

PAYING THE BILL

Sir Walter Scott aptly described the fickleness of popular fancy when he told of

"The crowd whose vulgar throat Strained for King James its morning note

Now cheers for Douglas—" That is the way with crowds. Always aroused over something immediate, impatient of causes or consequences.

They yelled for railways, irrigation and drainage systems in Alberta and the provincial government had to provide.

They stormily demanded a university and a complete system of schools. They wanted good roads and bridges.

They wanted technical and normal riage."

schools. Old age pensions and workmen's compensation. All this and much more.

Now, mind you, most of these things are good and proper and we are not objecting to any of them in particular.

But the point is that all cost money. The taxpayer has to foot the bill. This important point seemingly was overlooked when the crowds howled their demands.

But when it comes to paying the bill that is a different thing and the crowds howl has a different tune. More like a whine.—Hanna Herald.

"Goodness, George! This is not our baby! This is the wrong carriage."

"Shut up! This is a better car."

CANADA'S

Permanent Character

There is iron and rock in the veins of Canada, as well as gold and silver. The stern and heroic qualities that conquered a wilderness and built a Dominion, united from Ocean to Ocean, still predominate in Canadian character. There is a permanency in this country that grows out of that character. It is expressed in institutions as well as individual craftsmanship and frugal industry.

The Bank of Montreal was the first permanent Bank in Canada. Having successfully co-operated with this country's people and business through the ups and downs of 115 years, the Bank today faces the future firm in its faith in the permanency of Canada's progress and the character, and resourcefulness of the Canadian people.

WEEKLY STOCK MARKET REPORT

The following is a report from the Edmonton Stock Yards, as supplied to The Times for the week ending October 11:

Receipts: Cattle, 935; Calves, 239; Hogs, 1674; Sheep, 775.

Trading so far this week has been on the brisk order and the market generally active as buyers are showing somewhat more interest. In consequence salesmen are cleaning up some of their leftovers and also are able to clear quite a lot of their fresh arrivals readily. Prices on the whole indicate about steady and unchanged values as compared to last week. Heavy cows are draggy, hard to move and showing a generally lower tone. The following are the prices:

Good to choice butcher steers selling at $2.25 to $3.75; mediums, $2.50 to $3.00; and common to fair $1.50 to $2.25; good to choice handyweight heifers $3.00 to $3.50; mediums $2.50 to $3.00; good heaves $2.25 to $2.50; and common to fair $1.50 to $2.00; bulk of good butcher cows $1.75 to $2.00; choice light quoted up to $2.25; common to medium $1.00 to $1.50; canners and cutters $1.00 to $1.50; and bulls $1.00 to $1.50.

Stock market none too active as the bulk of the offerings are on the plain order. The better grades of steers and heifers are selling from $2.50 to $3.00; plain to medium $1.50 to $2.25.

Calf market about steady. Heavy calves, particularly plain ones, are inclined to be hard movers. Good to choice light calves selling at $4.00 to $4.50; fair to medium $3.50 to $4.00; and as low as $2.00 for undesirable.

Hog market lower. Today carloads sold at $3.70 for the bacons fed and watered, with trucked in at $3.50. Selects bringing a premium of 50¢ per cwt. and butchers discounted 50¢ per cwt. Cuts remain the same and are as follows: Heavies discounted $1.00 per cwt.; extra heavies and No. 1 sows $1.75 per cwt.; No. 2 sows $2.25 and roughs and stags $2.50 per cwt.

Sheep and lamb market has slowed up somewhat as buyers are not quite so keen in their bidding. Prices on lambs a shade lower. Bulk of good butcher lambs selling at $3.50 to $4.00; odd choice ones bringing a shade more; fair to medium $2.50 to $3.25; yearlings $3.00 to $3.00; and ewes $1.00 to $2.00.

There have been times I must confess When things have been in a mael of a mess. But just the same I'll say with a grin It's a darned good year for the shape it's in.—Unity Courier.

COMMUNICATION

[We do not necessarily endorse the sentiments advanced by this or any other correspondent under this heading.—E.D.]

To the Editor:

Dear Sir:

OUR LATEST PATERNALISM While we personally utterly disagree with the Edmonton Journal, that the Debt Adjustment Act is working out satisfactorily for the farmer, we do agree with a good deal of the Journal's comment on Mr. Brownlee's latest stroke of paternalism.

It may seem to many strange that a lawyer would object to the scheme. He stands a very good chance of making some money out of it. That however, is entirely beside the point. The vital feature is that as the proposal stands now The Government will pay The Lawyers Ten Dollars for a meeting and if compromise effected Fifteen Dollars More.

The likelihood is that all will be thoroughly dissatisfied except the fortunate lawyers who get the appointments; and the poor old taxpayer will be mulcted for a few more hundred thousand dollars by sanctimonious John.

Our Courts are today fully cognizant of the situation that prevails in Alberta. No creditor is presently being injured in the least. The Judges are promptly and equitably attending to these matters whenever the same are brought to their attention. It seems a safe bet that so far we are quite as safe in the hands of our Judges as in Mr. Brownlee's hands; in fact far safer.

Aside from the above, the average creditor today is fully aware of his creditor's situation; and too is thoroughly ready to assist in every possible way, his debtor if that debtor be making the attempt of the prudent industrialist man to help himself. Mr. Brownlee can add nothing to help them. He simply wants to play politics and needlessly at that. His trouble is going to be holding down the Reds within his party when the House meets again. He wants to pave the way in advance, to meet the arguments his Reds will put up in the House to pass a moratorium.

If he cannot longer handle his party and Mr. Gardiner (as appears the case) then the British custom and tradition under these circumstances is for a premier to resign or dissolve Parliament and go to the people for a new mandate. Every member of the Law Society knows this and had it not been for the beautiful money making scheme for lawyers, involved in the proposals now promulgated, we are convinced these benches would have so reminded Mr. Brownlee of his correct duty under the circumstances.

HARRY A. WHITE, Murders, Alberta.

FURTHER NEWS

IN MANY AREAS

Snow fell Friday in many parts of the province, and a local storm during the early morning boosted precipitation another .12 of an inch, making a total of .38 of an inch since Wednesday. It is equivalent to almost four inches of snow.

Temperature dropped to 30 degrees above zero during the morning, and never more than 35 during the day. Snow was reported at Hanna, Drumheller, Rocky Mountain House, Red Deer, Lacombe, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Munson, Three Hills, Chinook, Delia, Swallow, Youngstown, Oyen, Craigmyle, and Rockyford.

AUTUMN PLANTING

Autumn gives a second opportunity during the year to plant trees, shrubs and fruit stocks. Early spring time is certainly the safest planting period. Plant materials then are awakened from the long winter of inactivity ready to ambitiously put forth a flush of growth both below and above the soil. However, a few considerations relative to autumn moving of woody plants are worthy of note.

Late August sees the conclusion of top growth in most prairie plants. A different condition prevails in the soil. Early September sees vigorous second growth of fine fibrous roots in raspberries and many other materials. The flush of growth having occurred in May and June, the flowers and fruit having run their course in June and July, and the wood ripened up in August, with transferring of storage plant food, September with warm soil enriched by rains permit a second period of root activity. Transplanting early in September under favorable moisture conditions has its advantages, but moisture is the critical factor.

A considerable amount of autumn transplanting has been done at the Dominion Experimental Station, Morden. Success has been the rule when this major operation was performed early in September favored by gentle rains. Raspberries and other small fruits have to considerable extent before digging and cut back to about 4 inches from the soil when set. In late October a furrow of soil is to be thrown against the row on either side to protect the new growth, some brush will be placed about November to catch the snow, and a fair crop of large raspberries should result somewhat later than usual next season. Coniferous trees are often moved in August, but unless the transplanting is to a well-sheltered moist location, the task is best delayed until the following April or May.

ALBERTA TO GAIN SEAT IN COMMONS

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—Prime Minister Bennett will introduce in the house of commons Monday a bill redistributing representation in the house. He gave notice of this today. It will be the regular decennial redistribution, based on the census of 1931. The province of Quebec, with a set representation of 65, will be the basis, the other provinces having as many members as the ratio between their population and that of Quebec. The bill will not alter the total number of members in the house—this will remain at 245: Nova Scotia will lose two members, and New Brunswick will lose one. British Columbia will gain two members and Alberta one. Representation from the other provinces will remain the same. The bill will change the boundary lines of many ridings, some being made smaller, others larger. In Ontario, for instance, the number of members will remain the same, but urban centres may be given more representation by abolishing some rural ridings.

TELL THE EDITOR

A certain weekly newspaper in the U.S.A., which is edited by a lady, has this little statement at the head of the local news items column. "If you have visitors that you are not ashamed of, let the editor know about it." It's mighty difficult for newspaper people to report things that they do not know about. Then again they may know that somebody has company, but who they are, and where from? Many items of this kind are left out because of this uncertainty, and also the uncertainty as to whether the local people wish the visit mentioned.

For the purpose of discussing with grain and milling interests in the United Kingdom and on the continent the standards generally of Canadian export grain, E. B. Ramsay, chairman of the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada, will leave shortly for Europe.

LAST WORDS

I don't think it's loaded. I'll just look down the barrel and see. Look at this wire hanging down. I'll throw it over to one side. I wonder if this rope will hold me? I think these must be the headache tablets, though there isn't a label on the box. Look at this car. I'm sure we can race it. Watch me run across in front of this car.

A LONG IMPRISONMENT

Cracking a large concrete block removed by blasting from the Welland south dock of the Welland Ship Canal, workmen were astonished to see a toad hop out from the centre of the block after it had been split. The toad was built in 1910, therefore the toad had been imprisoned for 22 years. It appeared slightly dazed for a few minutes after gaining its freedom, but was soon hopping about like any other toad. It seemed quite normal with the exception of its feet, which appeared to be under-developed.

LOCAL RUGBY TEAM WIN FROM STRATHCONA HIGH

The Wetaskiwin rugby squad played the Strathcona High School in an exhibition game at the Athletic Park on Monday. The Wetaskiwin team, beginning the game in their best style, led the count with a score of 5 to 0, when Asp, seconding a beautiful run by Moore, ran the pilskin for a touch. Due to a damaged ankle he failed to convert it. Paton completed two forwards in the first quarter, and Brown one. In the second quarter, Scona made a kick to the deadline, but Wetaskiwin seconded Scona's effort, to leave the score 6-1.

In the third quarter, Asp kicked a field goal. A kick to the deadline was also accomplished, and the score stood 10 to 1 at the end of the third. Anderson of Strathcona after a marvelous run, gave Scona a touch. Parker converted it. McMurdo, playing for Asp, kicked a field goal, leaving the score 13 to 7 when the game ended. Wetaskiwin was penalized 40 yards throughout the game, compared to 10 yards lost by Scona. Miquel on played an entrancing game, and made possible the success of the home team. The Edmonton players gave the home boys the hardest battle. Wetaskiwin has won four successive games, and has suffered no defeats. The players were:

Edmonton: Lefter, Benson, Miles, J. White, Humphreys, Stuart, Barker, Morse, Lytle, Ross, Anderson, Walton; subs, Younie, Vaughan, Macleod, Prichard, I. White, Smitten. Coach: T. Robinson.

Wetaskiwin: J. Irvine, H. Irvine, J. Blickenstaff, A. Williamson, B. Brown, McMurdo, R. Paton, Shaw, Moore, Asp, Kirslein, Miquel; subs, Leahy, McArthur, Kelley. Coach, G. G. Farewell.

Ponoka is scheduled to play Wetaskiwin on Friday next at the Athletic Park. This should be a good game.

WETASKIWIN DEFEAT RED DEER

A thrilling rugby game between Wetaskiwin and Red Deer took place at Wetaskiwin Friday afternoon, and resulted in a win for the local boys, with a score of 14-11. This is the third game won by Wetaskiwin in the High School Rugby League. In the first half, Kirslein made a touch-down, and converted it. Brown completed a 30 yard quarter pass, Asp made a field goal, and in the same half, Asp kicked another field goal. Alnesworth of Red Deer made a touchdown, and Graham failed to convert it. Just before half time, Paton completed a 35 yard forward pass and another at the beginning of the second quarter. Asp

LIBRARY NOTES

The library membership is steadily increasing, last Saturday four new members were enrolled, and one on Tuesday, each day brings its additions. The total membership is now 94.

Our readers will find a good selection of fiction on the library shelves, most of which were published this fall. Amongst them are the following:

"Prologue to Love," by Martha Ostenso. The setting of this splendid story is the Kamloops Valley of British Columbia, midway between the vast arches of the Rockies and the colorful Cascades. To this region of great sheep ranches, Autumn Dean retreats from her schooling among the Continental smart set, to find herself inescapably faced with a faithful secret and a conquering love. As in the author's earlier novels, "The present story is steeped in the stark, wild beauty of the Northwest. It is intensely vital with human drama."

"Dream of Destiny," and "Venus Rising from the Sea," by Arnold Bennett. "Dream of Destiny," which was unfinished by Arnold Bennett, is a marvelous piece of character drawing, and "Venus Rising from the Sea," is the last complete story that Bennett wrote.

"Hot Water" by P. G. Wodehouse. Another splendid long story by the world's humorist. Reviewing Mrs. J. Welling Gades' worldly goods one would have thought her cup of happiness must be complete. Yet this was not so. She had a small business and a large income, and both of these she used relentlessly in her efforts to attain her great ambition—to place her unfortunate husband on an ambassadorial throne.

The library opens its doors as a great public mental recreation ground for your leisure hours.

The Professor's Assistant

Stephen Bennett was disappointed at the news which Rose Lathrop thought would make him happy. He struggled to hide his feelings from her; but as he was clumsy and awkward in speech and manners, and Rose was sharp and quick in interpreting another's emotion, he was not very successful in his endeavor.

"Uncle Edward wrote to the board of trustees in your behalf, Steve, and the appointment as teacher is yours."

"Now that's kind of your uncle, and you, too, Rose," was the stammering reply. "I appreciate it. It's fine for a great man like Professor Wells to take all that trouble for a fellow like me."

Rose smiled at the tall, awkward youth, sitting on the edge of the chair as if afraid it might collapse if he rested his full weight on it.

Queer how he could not eliminate the note of disappointment in his voice, Rose noticed it and wondered. The two had been classmates and friends all through college.

Time and again Steven had helped Rose with her sciences, especially geology, which he had majored in. "Are you quite sure you wanted the position, Steve?" ventured the girl anxiously.

"Sure? Why of course I'm sure. I had to work at something. I'm good at anything but teaching—and loafing."

"Loafing?" she said.

"Well, I meant going around with a hammer and a magnifying glass inspecting rocks and such things!"

"Oh, I see," she added, frowning. Suddenly she changed the subject.

"Steve, I'm going with uncle on his geological expedition to the Grand Canyon. He's decided to let me go. I'll try to be of some use as his secretary. I can't do much else, you know, and uncle needs an assistant."

His face flushed in embarrassment again, but his voice did not fail Steven. "That's great, Rose! I congratulate you! Why, it will—will be—wonderful!"

"Uncle's a little disappointed in one way," she added apologetically, "for he wanted a geologist as an assistant."

"He's a great man, Rose! Just to listen to him talk is an education."

Rose smiled again, and asked mischievously, "If you think so much of him why didn't you apply for the position of assistant on this expedition?"

"Why? Why? Me? I? I wouldn't have the nerve to do such a thing."

Rose fumbled with some letters in her hand. "Uncle had a number of applications," she stated, looking at the letters. "Hartley Sommers wasn't too bashful about applying for the position, nor Wilson Belmont."

"Huh! They? I mean, of course, they're hardly qualified for such an important position."

The girl detained him by shuffling the letters and drawing out another one. "This application was anonymous. No name signed. It's typewritten, too. I wonder who wrote it. Let me read it to you."

"It isn't necessary," he stammered.

"How formal it is," murmured Rose, looking at the typewritten letter, and then reading:

"The undersigned begs to apply for the position as assistant to Professor Wells in his forthcoming expedition to the Grand Canyon. As to his qualifications for the position, he begs to submit the following—"

"I really must be going, Rose," interrupted Steven.

Young Bennett managed to back out of the library without upsetting any books or, stumbling over the rugs.

He could not help but look wistfully at the distant range of mountains towering high above the peaceful valley ten miles away.

Professor Edward Wells was the dean of sciences in the university, but his fame extended far beyond the walls of that seat of learning.

Steven was looked upon as a queer fellow, whom you could tease and plague without a comeback, but look out for his righteous anger when you did anything that aroused his sense of fair play or interfered with his moral code.

He had in an unguarded moment told Rose of his anxiety to get work that fall. "About the only thing I can do is teach," he added ruefully. "There might be a chance of an opening in the normal school for a geologist, but you have to have a pull."

Rose had used her influence, or rather used that of her uncle to get Steven the position, and now when she handed the contract to him, she saw that he was not so pleased as she had expected.

Two days later a letter drifted into Steven's hands by way of a post office box of the local newspaper which Steven had used. It was addressed to "Anonymous." When Steven opened it, and saw the name of Professor Wells at the bottom, his hand began trembling.

"If Anonymous will call on me I think I can engage him as my assistant. Your qualifications seem better than any of the other applicants. I did turn down your application at first because of the lack of a real signature. I engaged a young lady for the position, but she has not the qualifications that you outline as possessing."

"Now what am I to do?" exclaimed Steven in agitation. "I could get the position, but—but—" He wiped the perspiration from his hot forehead. The young lady in question who would be turned down for him was, of course, Rose. That knowledge raised a doubt in his mind. He read the letter again and again.

In the end, after a mighty struggle, Steven wrote on his battered typewriter a formal reply and sent it to the professor. "Anonymous regrets, after due consideration, that he cannot accept Professor Wells' kind offer to go as his assistant."

That was all, but Steven knew it was enough to blast all his future hopes. He had formally turned down the greatest offer that had ever come his way. Loyalty to Rose compelled the sacrifice.

He did not dare trust himself to call on her for several days. On the third day Rose called him up on the phone. "Steve, I'm in trouble," she announced. "Uncle wants me to copy some notes and my typewriter is being repaired."

"You want to borrow mine?" he interrupted. "Why, of course you can have it. I'll bring it right around."

Steven took his old battered typewriter around and left it with her maid, as Rose had gone out.

In the evening Rose called him up again to tell him she had finished copying the notes. "Won't you come around to get the typewriter now, Steve?" she added. "I know you'll need it. I'll have a cup of tea for you when you call."

He did not care about the cup of tea, but he did want to see Rose and have a chat with her. He made his toilet hastily and hurried around to the professor's home. Rose admitted him and conducted him to the library.

"Typewriters have individuality, Steve, like people, don't you think?" Rose insisted on bringing up the subject of typewriters. "I read the other day of the way a criminal was detected by the typewriter he used in copying a letter."

Steven gulped and nodded, looking very much embarrassed. "Now, look at this, Steve," Rose added, thrusting a paper before him. "It's a letter by that 'Anonymous' written to uncle!"

Steven looked as though he would like to fly out of the window.

"Here's the queer part of it, Steve. The letter looks as if it had been written on your typewriter. I copied it myself on a sheet of paper, and they look exactly alike. See for

ABOUT BOXING LUNCHES

(By Barbara B. Brooks)

The term "dinner pail" is no longer applied (at least not in the best nourished circles) to a container for a lunch, particularly the school lunch. It is now a lunch box.

This change in name has come about more from a change in the type of a lunch packed than an alteration in the size or shape of the box.

We have learned the value of carefully planned meals and it has often been brought to our attention that well packed lunches for the school children are very important. They should never be altogether composed of foods such as meat, potatoes, cake and pie which are natural components of dinners. There should be salads, sandwiches, fruits and foods which are light and yet nourishing.

Many a child's afternoon's recitation has been spoiled because he ate heavy food at lunch time which dulled his mind and was conducive to drowsiness. It is really unfair to any child to send him to school with a lunch box which is not well packed.

Packing a lunch box is not difficult if you know just what you are going to put in. Here are some suggestions which may help you.

1. Select a lunch box which can be easily and thoroughly cleaned.

2. Pack the foods carefully. Cover jars with tightly fitting lids and wrap foods to keep them fresh and to prevent one flavor from mixing with another.

3. Choose a variety of foods and avoid too much repetition.

4. Include one hot dish (if possible) every day in cool weather and occasionally in warm weather. (A thermos container will assure this).

5. Be sure to have something from each of the food groups.

FOOD GROUPS

Building foods (keep the body in repair and build new tissues): Milk, meat, eggs, fish, cheese, legumes.

Fuel foods (provide heat and energy): Cereals, fats, sugars, vegetables of high starch content.

Regulating foods (keep body machinery in good running order): Whole grain cereals, bran, fruit, vegetables, milk.

SAMPLE LUNCH BOX MENUS
For Autumn—
Succotash (hot), peanut butter, sandwiches, ripe tomato, gingercake.

Soup, chopped meat sandwiches with lettuce, sliced raw carrots, apple, milk, cookies.

For Winter—
Vegetable soup, stuffed egg, bran bread sandwiches, orange.

Hot baked beans, brown bread, cheese, apple sauce, milk.

Out in the country the other day, the telephone rang, and the hired man took charge. "Is this Mr. Smith's?" was the question. "Yes it is," "Is Mr. Smith at home?"

"Yes, he is." Then Central said "Long distance from Edmonton." And the hired man, trying to be agreeable, answered: "It sure is, ma'am," and hung up.

yourself. The same battered 'a', the blurred 'e', and the nicked 'd'. Look at them.

Steve did not want to look. "Oh, Steve!" she gasped finally. "I played a trick on you. I simply had to."

"I—I—well, I wish—" "Steve," Rose interrupted his stammering. "Why did you turn down uncle's offer? As his secretary I opened your letter, and—and I have not given it to him yet."

"You should!" he said solemnly. "Well, I shan't! There!" She tore the letter in pieces before his eyes. "You're going to write another accepting, or make an appointment with him."

"But, Rose, I can't! You've got the position!" stammered Steven.

"No, I can't qualify. I'm going as his secretary, but he wants an assistant. Now come. Uncle's waiting to see you."

Steven gasped and looked panic-stricken, but Rose took his arm, and somehow her touch quieted his emotions.

I DON'T LIKE

THE DEPRESSION

(By L.D.N.—Bassano Mail)

This article was written in reply to an essay "No More Prosperity For Me" which has gained wide circulation and was reprinted in last week's issue of The Mail.

I like prosperity. No more depression for me. I have had less real fun since the depression started than I ever had before in my life.

I have seen more misery among people, including many of my friends, since this depression started, than I ever dreamed there could be. I don't like it.

I don't like to see people hungry. I don't like to see them ill-clad, shivering with cold. I don't like to see the strained and hopeless looks on the face of the workless and hopeless. I find it hard to sleep at nights when I see such conditions.

I don't like to see middle-aged and old men turned out of their jobs. They wander round in a daze and helpless way. They are losing their savings, their life insurance, their homes, their confidence and their self-respect. I don't like it.

I don't like to see fresh-faced boys and girls come out of school with hope in their hearts and eagerness in their eyes, only to face a workless and discouraged world. What present hopes are blasted in the shoot. No chance have they to establish themselves in a trade or profession? They do I like to see boys and girls who have had jobs, turned into the street, sleeping in jungles, riding by the hundreds on freight trains, existing by "panhandling." What is there in that picture for any human being to like?

I don't like to see mothers worrying about their boys and girls and their husbands, crowdfest gathering in the corners of their eyes, clothes re-made and ugly—hair turning to white rapidly. Depressions are very unkind to mothers.

I don't like to hear people talking about the depression. Their stories of hardship and suffering of others make me ponder. What if it were me, or my family? I don't like it.

I like prosperity, good times for all. I like to hear the jingle of money in every man's pocket. I like to see the look of hope in everyone's eyes. I like to know people are doing well, making money, having a good time, proud of their own accomplishments and trustful in their ability to do even greater things.

I like to know of people having plenty to eat, lots of good clothes to wear, work to do, enjoyment to amuse them, able to laugh and joke and sing; free of misery and caring cares. I'd like to see that condition brought about.

I can't conceive of any sensible, thoughtful, considerate being like the depression, but are fed up with it, sick and tired of the tragedy of it all, keenly eager to bring about a return of good times, and anxious that something will happen soon to lift this cloud of misery and depression from the earth.

RIC TRAPPER SUCCUMBS TO LOSS OF BLOOD

Lytton, B.C., Oct. 6.—Frank Gott, aged trapper, wounded and captured on Wednesday by officers hunting him for the alleged killing of Game Warden Albert E. Farey, died Wednesday night in Lytton hospital. He was arrested in Moha, B.C., after being shot twice in the leg.

Weak from the loss of blood, death came to the 76-year-old trapper Wednesday night. Posses of woodsmen had stalked him through the heavy timber since last Monday, when Farey was shot down near the trapper's camp. Following the shooting, the aged man was seen to run into the bush.

Gott is said to have borne a grudge against the game warden because of a previous conviction for infraction of the game laws. Farey visited the Gott camp, near Moha, in the Lillooet district, on Monday, to examine some deer skins known to have been in Gott's possession.

The aged trapper is alleged to have ordered Farey from his camp, and shot him from behind before the warden could move. Before he fled he wrote a note saying that he intended to commit suicide.

DIET REQUIRES FATS

A notable fact is that diet plays a most important part in combating tuberculosis. After the German occupation of Warsaw there was an alarming increase in tuberculosis, because the Germans removed as much fat of all kinds as they could with which to make high explosives. When the people of Warsaw were able to return to a diet containing sufficient fat, the tuberculosis declined rapidly. It is generally accepted that a diet rich in fats constitutes a definite protection against tuberculosis. Efforts made to reduce dust in factories are also cited as a contributory cause of the decline, as well as sanitation, water supply, and personal hygiene. —Montreal Star.

The principle of a plan to make voluntary adjustments of debts in this province, involving the appointment by order-in-council of committees for this work in each judicial district, was approved at the annual meeting of the Edmonton Bar association on Friday. Under the plan, solicitors would be chosen to represent the debtors and assist to arrange a compromise with their creditors.

The Alberta Pacific Grain Company Ltd.

COMMENCING business in the North-West Territories in 1901—four years prior to the formation of the Province of Alberta—The Alberta Pacific Grain Company, and predecessor companies, carries in its records a long line of service to the farmers of Alberta.

ALBERTA Grain Company, Limited, under the able management of John I. McFarland, commenced business in 1901. Total production of wheat in Western Canada in that year had reached less than 65,000,000 bushels. Under Mr. McFarland's policy of fair dealing with all farmers, the growth of his company kept pace with increasing wheat production in the West. In 1912 Alberta Pacific Grain Company, Limited, was brought into being under guidance of Mr. McFarland, and consisted of an amalgamation of Alberta Grain Company and Alberta Pacific Elevator Company, Limited.

THE "A.P." organization continued to grow. Its elevators followed the railway construction crews into the newly cultivated areas of Alberta and extended its operations into Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

WITH the completion of the building of the Panama Canal the "A.P." became a pioneer in the movement of grain to import markets through the Western route. Terminal elevators, having a capacity of 6,250,000 bushels have been acquired by the Company at the Port of Vancouver.

THE "A.P." system has passed through the financial stress of 1907-08; the war and its aftermath; boom periods and the business upheaval of the past three years—a period of years, many of which have been obscure and filled with business uncertainties. In all its three decades of dealings with thousands of farmers and the handling of hundreds of millions of bushels of grain, the Company has never failed in an obligation to any client. Among its customers today are pioneers of Alberta who drew the first bushel of grain they produced in the Province to an "A.P." elevator.

FAIR-DEALING with its customers, coupled with competent office and field staffs; efficient physical grain handling equipment and desire and ability to return to the grower the most that can be obtained for his grain, has brought the "A.P." system from its humble beginning in 1901 to its present position in the grain trade of Canada.

THE policies of the "A.P." today are and will continue to be, those of the founder of the "A.P." system.

SINGLE UNEMPLOYED
TO BE CARED FOR IN CAMPS, SAYS REPORT

Toronto, Oct. 7. — The Toronto Globe in a dispatch from its Ottawa correspondent today said Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, minister of labor and chairman of the Dominion cabinet sub-committee on unemployment relief, would soon submit to Parliament a scheme of direct relief under which every needy person in Canada will have food, fuel, clothing and shelter during the winter.

An important departure from policy of recent years, the newspaper said, is that the Dominion government will not share in the cost of municipal public works but will contribute directly to maintenance of those who are in distress.

In Western Canada particularly, the Globe continued, arrangements will be made to care for unmarried unemployed men in camps.

The newspaper said the government would require to pass new legislation to enable it to put into effect its proposed scheme as powers it secured to deal with the situation last year were sufficiently flexible to enable it to vary its relief policy in different areas to suit needs of the various provinces of the Dominion.

MILITARY COSTS
DROP IN CANADA

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—How far Canada has traveled along the road towards disarmament is strikingly illustrated in the report of the national defence department for the fiscal year ended March, 1932. The personnel of the non-permanent militia at the end of the corresponding period in 1914 totalled 55,282. Last March this had dropped to 51,287, the lowest figure since 1927. Eighteen years ago, the amount spent on militia affairs was $2,005,166, while at the end of the last fiscal year only $1,221,945 was expended.

The most drastic reduction is noted, however, in the number of men trained at camp. In the pre-war year this totalled 32,391. This year 2,131 men went to camp.

ALBERTA COAL OUTPUT

Edmonton, Oct. 7th. — More coal mined in August than in the same month last year, and a fairly substantial increase in the production for eight months, to August 31, over the same period of 1931, are features of the mines branch's monthly report. The August figures were 261,996 tons, against 261,710, and for the eight months, 2,626,338 tons, a gain of 148,479 tons over last year. Domestic coal fields produced 197,482 tons, as compared with 194,017 in August a year ago; bituminous, 135,277, against 124,473; and sub-bituminous, 29,237, against 48,220. In the domestic fields the heavy producers were: Drumheller, 46,033 tons; Lethbridge, 27,333; and Edmonton, 14,814.

Call in Scotland Yard

Fiction murders have one thing in common. No sooner is the corpse discovered, hanging headless, feet up, from a curtain pole, or sprawled on the floor in the musty panelled library of the ancestral estate, with a Malay poison dart through the body, than the author immediately calls in Scotland Yard. A dapper little man, with derby hat and stiff collar, arrives and then after a hundred pages of sparkling intuitions, solves the case.

Thus, Scotland Yard seems to be a depository of superhuman intuition. Actually, it is composed of a group of men who work with the most prosaic methods and who have several unique advantages, due to the geographical position and psychological make-up of England.

Scotland Yard has about 20,000 employees, 19,000 of them in uniform working out of district police stations and attending to the routine matters of keeping the peace, directing the traffic and patrolling the neighborhood. The "Scotland Yard" has another meaning—it has now become a symbol for one part of the Metropolitan Police, the "C.I.D."—Criminal Investigation Department—which, with less than 1,000 employees, concentrates on the detection of crime.

The uniform branch has given Scotland Yard its reputation for politeness and quiet ability; but it is the C.I.D. which has given the Yard its reputation for efficiency. Murder—real murder—is a crime rare in London. Between 1926-1931 there were 95 murders committed and only eight of them are unsolved at this time.

The first essential of the C.I.D. system is speed. Every man available is detailed on the case when a murder is discovered, for the Yard has found by experience that at a rule more can be learned in the first 12 hours than in the next 12 days.

A man and wife were walking down a dark street toward their home late one October night in 1922, when suddenly, at a corner, the husband was attacked from the rear and instantly killed. Beginning at that midnight hour—without a clue—the wife had seen no one—Chief Constable Wensley, the most famous detective the Yard has produced, had a suspect detained by six o'clock the next evening and had a confession from him the following morning. Wensley solved the mystery by detailing several scores of men to examine every friend and relative of the couple; one of the relatives mentioned the name of a man who he thought had been seeing the wife without her husband's knowledge; and the wife asked to name her friends, carefully forgot to list that young man's name.

The division of the "Flying Squad" which is attached to the C.I.D. helps in the matter of speed. The squad has its own automobiles, which may or may not be disguised as delivery wagons and which, as they cruise the streets of London, are in constant touch with the Yard by radio. The second feature of the system is the tremendous attention which the C.I.D. gives to detail. Amazing deductions have been made through seemingly trifling things. In one case an old man was found dead. In the shack in which he had lived there was an oil lantern which the neighbors said had not been there before. One inspector examined it and found that it had a home-made wick taken from a piece of a girl's dress. With this clue he searched through the neighborhood and found a girl who had such a dress and thus through her he found the murderer.

Another feature of the system is the use of records which are filed according to the technique used in previous crimes. Especially in cases of larceny and forgery the records kept by the Yard are largely responsible for the impressive figures shown in its annual report: Number of simple larceny cases known to the police, 5,809; taken into custody, 5,378!

Then, too, other factors come to the help of the Yard. First is the fact that England is a small island with comparatively few exits. At each port there is always a Scotland Yard man, watching incoming and outgoing traffic. Once the alarm is set out, it is extremely difficult to escape from England.

At the same time Scotland Yard deals with a population that is almost entirely native-born. In all London, now, with its 7,000,000 people, there are less than 140,000 foreign-born. This leads to what is probably the biggest factor behind the success of Scotland Yard—the attitude of the average Englishman toward law and order.

Many an American, fresh from New York and memories of armored express cars has been amused in passing the Bank of England to see money transfer going on. A rickety truck stands by the curb. Inside, in plain can shoot," an official said, "they learned in the war."

Carrying a gun during the commission of crime automatically adds from six to ten years to one's sentence. A housebreaker knows that if he is caught unarmed, he will receive two years' imprisonment, but if he carries a gun he will get 12 years; as he goes unarmed. Also, any one wishing to purchase either a gun or ammunition must apply to the police for a permit. There has been some "bootlegging" in guns but the Yard knows where most of the guns in England are.

The morale in the Yard is enviable and the record of honesty of its men is almost unsullied. Since 1878, when three of the C.I.D. were convicted of receiving bribes, the C.I.D. record is unstained.

And the stains of the record of crime detection—unsolved cases—are likewise small. Since 1926 there have been only eight "unsolved" cases and almost all of these are solved to the satisfaction of the Yard, but evidence necessary for a conviction is lacking.

A Zane Grey picture means adventure, exciting action and the old West brought alive on the screen. It means scenery of incredible beauty and a story of stalwart courageous men and women living the lives of rugged frontier days. The battle of law and order against the bad men of the cattle ranges. His private life was public property. Headlines screamed his boudoir secrets. He was fed up on fame—but famished for love. If you think it's fun to be a hero, see how much fun there is for everybody but the hero in the first inside story of the REAL EXPERIENCES OF A CELEBRITY YOU AND THE WHOLE WORLD KNOW. Canada has a religious sect so small the recent census reveals that it has not been calculated separately.

Its members are known as the Tunkers and they live a very severe life.

Men and women dwell apart; marriage is forbidden and they are strict vegetarians. There are also

Tunkers in the United States but there they are called Dunkers and sometimes Dunkards or Dippers. The sect was founded in Germany in 1708

by Alexander Mack but fled from persecution to the United States in 1720. They settled at Ephrata near

Philadelphia, but later spread westward.
